Mr. Hland was a native of Kentucky, having been born near Hartford on August B. 1835. He received an academic education in his native state and in 1835 removed to Missouri. He then went to California and to that portion of Uran which is now Neyada, sociating at Virginia City as a practicing attorney-at-ins. He was interested in mining operations in California and Nevada, and was county treasurer of Carson City, Urah territory, from 1830 until the organization of the state government of Nevada. In 1855 he returned to Missouri and located at Rolla. Here he practiced law with his brother, C. C. Hland, until he semoved to Lebanon in August, 1836.

Mr. Bland devoted himself to his profession until he was chosen to represent his district in the Forty-third congresse. He was re-elected to the Forty-feurih. Forty-elight. Porty-seristic. LEXINGTON, MISSOURI, SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 1899

New York, June 20.—Should President McKinley deem it necessary, in view of the protracted fighting in the Philippines, to call for volunteers sufficient in number to effectively repress the rebellion, he will find practically the entire country behind his back in support of his action. That this is an indisputable fact is shown by responses of governors to telegraphic inquiries sent by the New York Herald. The Lebanon, Mo., June 16. — Richard Parks Bland passed peacefully away at at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Tuesday night about ten o'clock he fell heads of state governments through-out the country were asked whether into a sleep from which he never they thought the American military force now in the Philippines sufficient-ly strong to crush the Insurrection, and if not how many more soldiers should be sent. The uniform answer to the first question is no. Regarding the second query the consensus of opinion is that the army under Maj. Gen. Otis should be increased to 100. 000. The feeling is practically univer-sal that to continue the campaign with the present seemingly inadequate force is more costly in lives and less credit-able to the country than it would be to raise the army to 100,000 men, hurry the reinforcements to the Philippines and crush the rebels in one short, sharp campaign. There is an impatient de-sire to see the end of the war, and a willingness cheerfully to stand by the president in raising as many more men as may be needed quickly to bring about that end.

THREE VIEWS OF TRUSTS. lov. Rogers Sees No Remedy Save Public Ownership-Prof. Bemis and Senator

Cockrell Express Themselves. Austin, Tex., June 20.-Gov. Sayers yesterday received a letter from Gov. Rogers, of Washington, declining to attend the anti-trust convention at St. Louis. He presents his reasons in the following letter:

Louis. He presents his reasons in the following letter:

In reply to your invitation allow me to say that it will be impossible for me to attend. It has occurred to me in this connection that many people are advocating state control of trusts with insincerity, thinking in this way to pass through the next national campaign with safety to themselves, feeling sure that whatever state legislation may be enacted which will really curb the power of trusts will eventually be declared unconstitutional by the United States supreme court. With those who thus and for that purpose advocate state legislation regarding trusts I can have no sympathy, and I am bound up believe, too, that legislative action which seeks to control the formation and management of trusts will prove inefloctual. In the first place the word "trust" is misleading when applied to a great many industrial combinations now threatening the prosperity of the people. In many instances so-called trusts are merely larger corporations. It has occurred to me that corporations will be declared to possess a vested and constitutional right to buy and sell. Clearly it seems to me corporations, as well as natural persons have a right to buy and sell. Clearly it seems to me corporations, as well as natural person have a right to buy and sell. Clearly it seems to the corporation or a natural person has the ability and the constitutional right to buy all of a corration or a natural person has the ability and the constitutional right to buy all of a corration product offered for sale, and this will unquestionably operate to fix the price at which such product will in future be sold. I am at a loss to see, too, how the natural and fundamental right of either natural or corporators persons to buy and sell can be interfered with by loss to see, too, how the natural and funda-mental right of either natural or corporate per-sons to buy and sell can be interfered with by legal enactment under our constitution. For this reason I can see no remedy for the trust evil save public ownership. This new question of the trusts is roally the very old one of capi-tal versus labor, or, stated differently, the al-tempt of the almighty dollar to entire suprem-acy in the affairs of men. There is in all this an irrepressible conflict which will not down at the oldding of any state legislature.

Library for Manila Soldiers.

Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—Isaac A. Wright, of this city, has just succeeded in having established a library and reading regularly large numbers of papers and periodicals to the brave boys in the Philippines, and that his efforts to afford the soldiers pleasure have met with success is attested by the many grateful letters he has ceived. of medium length. Those taken from English designs are extremely short or exaggeratedly long, but all quite plain. The bolero jacket will not leave us, but it has merged its identity into the Etun jacket, to the advantage of both. There are still some regular botero jackets worn, of embroidery and passementerie or of velvet, but they are, after all, only part of the trimming of the gown with which they are worn. This new jacket, combined Eton and bolero, looks especially well with the princesse gowns. The long jackets and even the wraps are not gored at all with that style of dress.—St. Louis Republic. VALUABLE HINTS. ome That the Careful Housewife May Prequently Find Uneful.
